

IDC 2XXX Community Service Outreach and Mentoring

New Course Justification

University students funded to attend underrepresented minorities conferences in CS/IT (e.g. Grace Hopper Conference), are asked to participate in community service by sharing what they have learned with other students at the university and in middle and high school. This sharing will serve to encourage broadening participation from underrepresented groups in CS/IT.

The conference attendees are also asked to mentor a middle or high school student in the creation of a mobile app, to give them experience developing software, and to be a role model for them when considering a career in CS/IT.
